Surfing in San Diego.

SAN DIEGO

SUNSHINE CITY

The strategy in this SoCal hub: spend as much time outdoors as possible.

SURF

Our favorite place to catch a wave? Black's Beach, a secluded cove ideal for pros. Arriving is a thrill all its own: it's a steep 10-minute hike from the road down to the water. Near 2800 Torrey Pines Scenic Dr.

EAT

Queue up with the locals at Oscar's, a divey taqueria in north Pacific Beach where the smoked-fish tacos—a San Diegan obsession—come loaded with avocado and three types of house-made salsa. There are only 25 seats, mostly outdoors, at the flagship location, but you can walk a few blocks to the shore for an impromptu picnic. ### RELAX

Find your Zen where the monks do, and head to the beautifully manicured gardens of the Self-Realization Fellowship, in Encinitas. They're lined with succulents, meditation benches, and koi ponds, all overlooking the Pacific. encinitastemple.org.

SEE

Whether you walk along the coastal cliffs or settle down with a blanket for a picnic, there's no wrong way to take in the
